Capitalism, Ideology, and Social Theory

Summer 2021
(May 10 – June 17)

Course Syllabus

Course Director: Marcello Musto

Class Time: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday 2:30-5:30

Class Location: Synchronous and Asynchronous Online

Office Hours: By appointment (Skype: marcello.musto3)

Email: marcello.musto@gmail.com

Unit Description

The course explores the applicability of sociological theory - classical and contemporary - to the social issues of modernity particularly, in relation to inequality, exploitation, and democratic rights of subaltern groups and their relationship to elite.

Course Requirements

Class Participation

This course is taught in 24 daily lectures lasting 3 hours each. Participation will be marked on the basis of a combination of attendance to lectures and active participation to the discussion in class.

Attendance and informed participation at all classes are not only strongly recommended but required. Students are expected to attend class regularly, complete the assigned readings on time, and participate actively to each class.

Students are suggested to prepare prior to each class a one page abstract (around 500 words) about the readings, which may include reflections on the main concepts included in the texts, questions about them, problems encountered with the readings (terminology, historical context, etc.), critical comparison with contemporary issues, etc. This preparatory work will help you in the preparation for the exams.

Midterm Exams

Two midterm exams will be held on May 24, 2021 and on June 3, 2021, at the regular class time and place. The exam will last 90 minute and it will consist of answering to 3 questions drawn from the readings assigned until that date. At the fall First mid-term exam students will be required to respond to questions concerning the readings from Day 2 to Day 8, while at the Second mid-term exam students will have to respond to questions related to the readings of the period lasting Day 10 to Day 15. Note that students who miss a test will not be offered the opportunity to repeat the test.

All students who require extra accommodation for either tests or assignments are responsible for consulting with the York University office in charge of alternate exam/test. Marks of both mid-terms' exams will be available by email one week after each test.

Presentation

During the periods Day 5 to Day 13 (except Day 9, the date of the First mid-term exam) and Day 21 to Day 23, each student will be required to give a 20-minute presentation. The presentations will be scheduled in alphabetical order (from A to Z - according to surnames) and will be focused on the authors and theories indicated in the Presentation Sign-up Sheet.

Each presenter should expose the sociological theory of the sociologist(s) of the week. In addition to that, the presentations can include thoughts on her/his continuing relevance today, on the reception of her/his main ideas, and can also critically compare her/him with other main sociologists read until that date.

Presenters should provide a 1-page summary (about 500 words), or a PPT (at least 10 slides) to the course director. Avoid Plagiarism and consult the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty.

A good presentation is very important to stimulate critical thinking. Therefore, please avoid just reading from a paper, and try to present ideas and raise questions for the engagement of others. To avoid overlapping with the lecture, presenters should not use the slides of the course director. Presentations should:

- expose some of the main arguments of the sociologist of the day;
- identify the key questions and the controversies implied by the readings of the day;
- critically analyze the text (for example: what are the limitations of the position expressed in the readings?);
- conclude with three discussion questions for the other students to debate.

Final Exam

A final exam will be held on June 17, 2021, at the regular class time and place. This exam will have an identical format to the two mid-terms exams. It will last 90 minute and it will consist of answering to 3 questions drawn from the readings assigned from Day 17 to Day 23.

Access to Course Readings

Many of the required readings are classical of sociological thought and are available on-line or through Scott Library. In any case, all readings have been uploaded on Moodle or are available through the links indicated below under Schedule of Classes and Readings. Journal articles are available through Scott Library. Additional readings are only available through Scott Library.

The PPT of lectures are also available on Moddle. Please note that not every class has a PPT presentation and that other materials will be shared during the course.
